

SUPREME FINANCE

Attn: Supreme Finance Client:

Due to the new Home Valuation Code of Conduct (HVCC) policy that went into effect May 1, 2009, all mortgage loans sold to Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac must now include an appraisal performed by an independent Appraisal Management Company (AMC). Under this policy, payment for appraisal services must now be made via credit card. Upon submission to the lender, the lender will charge the appraisal fee to your card. Please consult with your loan specialist for details on your appraisal cost.

Supreme Finance will not be responsible for any refunds once the appraisal has been completed. The appraisal fee is non-refundable. Supreme Finance will not be the entity collecting any money for the appraisal. Supreme Finance will act as a pass-through for the credit card information only.
